

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

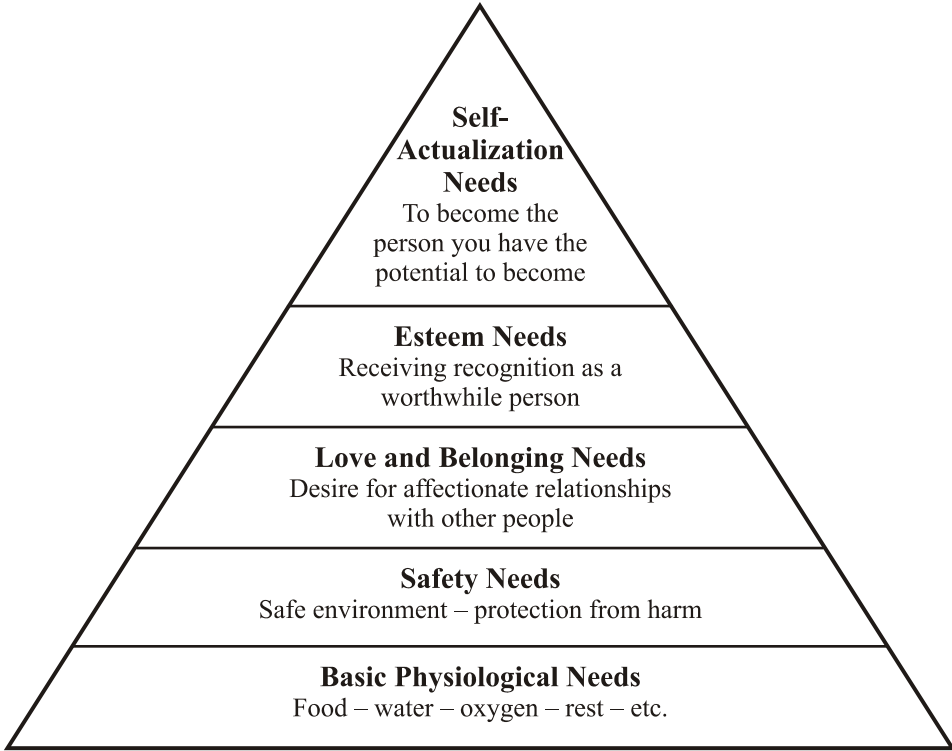

.....

.....

.....

.....

Years ago a psychologist named Abraham Maslow suggested certain needs each person has in their life in order of importance. See illustration

Most partners help to fulfil the basic levels of needs, physiological and safety, but fail to fully meet the other three higher needs, for love and belonging, esteem and self-actualization.

Now looking at the chart complete the following sentences:-

1 During our marriage I will try to meet the needs of my partner in these last three higher needs of:

Love and Belonging

.....

In your relationship with the Holy Spirit you have a secure sense of competence as you allow Him to work in you to produce the characteristics that are God and through you the joy of shared accomplishment that brings blessings to other human beings.

This is how the presence of God in your life will empower you to fulfil these three higher needs in your partner's life and they in yours.

Next time we will study
Roles, Responsibilities and Decision-Making in your Marriage